About these questions

Household means the people who live with you and usually buy and prepare food together. A roommate who buys and cooks food separately is not part of your household.

Household income means the total money that everyone in your household earns from work before taxes, including wages, tips, and self-employment. We use it to decide whether you qualify and how much you receive.

We ask for your rent because housing costs can increase your monthly benefit. If you leave it blank, we cannot count it.

Giving the last four digits of your Social Security number helps us find your records faster. You can apply without it.
